Increase As Students Strive to Meet New Goals

Mr. Chaplin and Mr. Kalaher enjoy their meal before the School Board and Mathematics Department meeting last fall.

This Too, Is HHS— Our Busy School Board

Have you ever thought of your school as a learning machine? Its mass is the students, the output is their learning. The cogs which hold this mass together are the faculty and guidance department. The janitors keep the machine in workable order; but of what use is the best machine without someone to run it?

This is the work of our school board. Their's is the job of maintaining a sound curriculum and good social foundation for present and future students of HHS. They must balance the school budget while providing the best facilities.

Many of us don't even know these men. However, we do know they are good administrators from the way this school is run. They have developed administrative ability by being successful themselves in this community. Their occupations range from farming to manufacturing, thus giving an indication of their many abilities.

Let us lift up a voice of praise for these unknown heroes, the forces behind the forces, the directors of the machine.

Both Mr. Boll and Mr. Cartwright seem pleased with the book they are reading.

He Who Defies Authority Is Refusing Guidance

If you think you're busy, did you ever stop to think of the responsibilities of a school administrator? If, perhaps, they seem to be rushing around at times, it's because there's always something to do. Tasks great and small are a part of their duties.

No matter how busy his schedule, our principal, Mr. Boll, finds time to devote attention to groups and individuals. Mrs. Benka, who can usually be found in the main office, is always willing to lend a hand. Taking care of the attendance records are Mr. Beatty and Mr. Klockow while Pat Groth keeps the place cheerful with a pleasant smile. The guidance department plays the final role in a smooth-functioning organization. Here Mr. Bell and Mr. Hammond guide the students in fulfilling their present and future ambitions.

These are the personalities behind the office desks. Each of these persons works toward the goal of better education for us, the students of Hartford High School. So you see, they're our friends, our very best friends.

Mr. Aliota, Central's guidance counselor, gives careful consideration to one of the daily problems that come to his attention.

Mr. Bell seems to be in complete agreement with Mr. Hammond as he explains the National Merit Test Requirements to P. Multhauf.

Janitors; H. Black, L. Theide, L. Scherger, G. Hoerth, and G. Young are ready to give HHS the "once over" for the umpteenth time.

A Combination of Early Birds,

Anyone for cookies? Mr. Hiller produces many thousand each year. If you want to find him in Central, just follow your nose!

Two very important members of our school family are the cooks and janitors.

If you ever had the misfortune of arriving at school as early as 7 o'clock, you would have seen our cooks bustling around the kitchen preparing the noon meal. It takes a long time to prepare food in such enormous amounts and this calls for early hours, and if you ever wondered why the hamsters look so well fed, their plumpness is largely due to the left-overs the cooks save for them.

Our janitors are also here at all times of the day and night and never seem to mind the many interruptions. How many times have we had them open doors so we could retrieve forgotten books, help with a jammed locker, or locate the whereabouts of a lost ladder, mop, or key. Besides all of these interruptions, they have to make sure the school is clean and warm. And then, of course, there are the unpleasant little jobs that no one else wants to do, so who's elected—the janitors. For example, the removal of certain items from the flagpole after Halloween. Isn't that right, Mr. Black!

The cooks and janitors could do their required jobs and leave it at that, but we are lucky enough to have a staff which considers us a little more important and helps us whenever we need it.

Pat Groth and Jean Benka pause for a smile between answering phones, helping us, and keeping the office running smoothly.

Central School's secretary, Mrs. Hammond, relays one of a countless number of messages over the inter-com.

Night Owls, and Busy Bees

Between cries of "Not so much!" and "Just a little more, please," Mrs. Jeffords, Mrs. Reagan, Mrs. Ziorgan, and Mrs. Hauser relax.

Mrs. Westphal and Mrs. Travis prove every day to Central students that two cooks aren't too many to spoil the broth!!!

Four Years Culminate

Brilliant looks of L. Mittelstadt, G. Purtell, F. Multerer, S. Jackson, C. Lisko reflect last year's experiences at Badger State.

Salutatorian Iris Zwieg (94.17) and valedictorian Bonnie Beilke (95.54) smilingly hold the whole world in their hands.

Last year's pros; Linda Kofel and Bonnie Beilke show this year's recipients of the Key and spade Awards, Kathy Jeffords and Kathy Holoubek, respectively, how to make good use of them.

Initiative — The Seniors Sliderule To Success

"What do you think you're trying to prove?" Sound familiar? If you're a senior it probably does because that's all we heard for weeks after announcing the changes we were planning for the Prom. An all junior court, a king elected by popular vote, and a false ceiling are just a few of the revisions we made.

As if this wasn't enough, we were at it again our senior year. We shocked the crowd with our Homecoming float; it was quite different from the usual "stuffed napkin" type. There wasn't a napkin in sight; instead, a water-wheel that really worked. This change of pace helped us win first place.

We weren't through yet, by any means. In fact, we were still going strong the last day of school when in we walked with bright blue graduation gowns. Quite a change from the dull gray gowns worn other years.

There were a few who disapproved, but you can't please everyone. The Class of '64 had a ball changing things. Let's hope we keep a little of that initiative in later years.

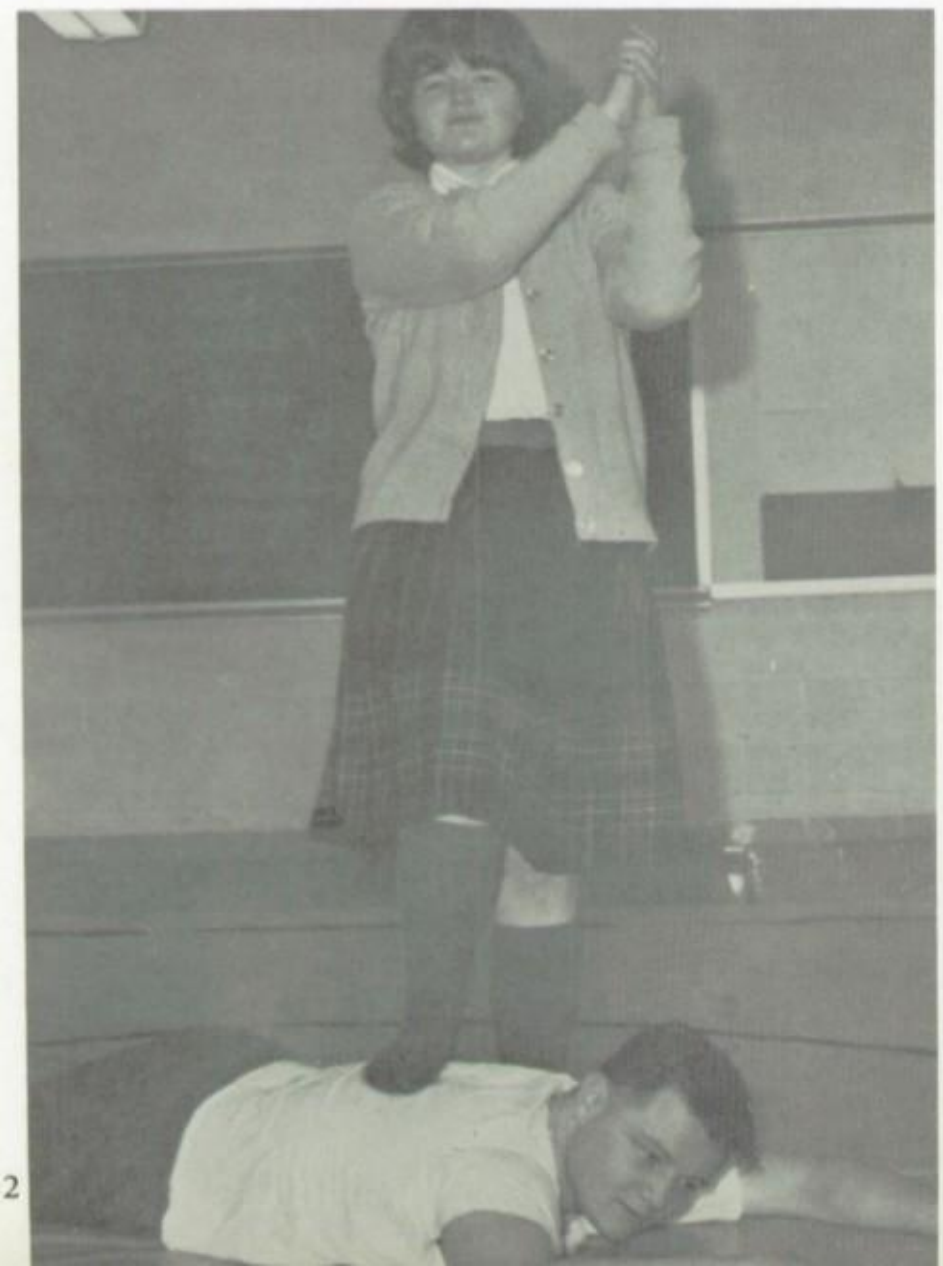
Students from Hartford High and surrounding areas traveled to West Bend for the annual College Day on November 16.

"By their deeds you shall know them." applies well to the Juniors, their stacks of books and their newly acquired '65 class rings.

W. Welbourne, S. Kraft, E. Hauser, and J. Kissling show their obvious delight at having their picture taken outside in December.

The Final Step Is Near at Hand for This Year's Junior Class

"Beatle" Wellbourne starts "bugging" the boys.



"Ooh! Why did we ever fight that dumb old Civil War?" Thus uttered a discouraged member of the Junior Class. Those of us who have lived through the year must admit that at one time or another we probably wished we could erase the terms "History," "Algebra," or "Chemistry" from the English language.

It was a year of work, but it was also a year of fun for the class of '65. They began the year with a bang by boosting their treasury with the first post-football game dance. How come their dances are always so much fun? (You must have been there, EVERYBODY was). "Boys form a circle on the outside, girls on the inside." Everyone was dancing! But the biggest event was still to come.

For weeks it was a mess of odd artwork. If anyone tried to sneak a look at the decorations, they discovered it was next to impossible for the Juniors kept their secrets well. The day finally came, however, and everything was ready and waiting. The result: A prom we'll not soon forget.

They are no longer upperclassmen as they were at Central—instead they have been demoted to the "youngest" class at H.H.S. But along with this demotion came the chance to participate in many activities denied them as "Centralites" . . . science club, high school band, mixed chorus, Homecoming candidates, competition for the "Little Brown Jug", and use of the language lab, just to mention a few.

This year also brought an introduction to a new school, a new principal, and new student body, not to mention new teachers (we hope!) and new subjects such as geometry, biology, typing, and art.

The Class of '66 is among the most enthusiastic of spectators at Pep rallys and the games. They're usually the first to begin cheering and the last to stop. Let's hope they keep up the fine spirit for that is just what we need, an over abundance of enthusiasm. With school spirit like this they are proving to be a real asset to H.H.S.

Homecoming Came and Went—Leaving A Trail

Mr. Hammond endeavors to "advise" our scarecrow who just can't seem to get her feet off the ground.

Soft lights and music met everyone as they entered the transformed gym Homecoming night. No longer was it the unglamorous basketball court lined with bleachers and illuminated with glaring lights; it was now a field of corn husks, shadows, and soft music. Suddenly, a hugh, all eyes move to the stage as the court enters and is introduced. At last the king and queen appear. They smile radiantly as they look out over their subjects. As they approach the thrown, the crowns are brought forward and presented. The King and Queen lead the grand march, followed by the court and other couples at the dance. The first dance is led by the King and Queen and soon they are joined by the court. Eventually everyone joins in and dances to the faraway strains of a rhythmic waltz.

The lights and music may have faded away but the memory has not. It is a pleasant thought which will remain with us for a long, long time. We must all agree that it was indeed a "Fall Frolic."

Spectators Marilyn Mueller, Dorthy Dietenburger, and Janice Sauter are among hundreds awaiting the parade.

Karen Haldeman, Mary Spuhler, Marcey Brummond, and Linda Kofel are "cheerful" backseat drivers.

After A Full Week of Activities, Homecoming Ends In Saturday Haze

King Dave Aulenbacher and Queen Beverly Faust smile as they reign in their "convertible" throne.

Wear shorts to school, you're kidding! No, it's not a joke, it was just one of the many new activities planned for the week of Homecoming at H.H.S.

Monday we started with a bang of an assembly at which the team and court was introduced and the school song was sung with more than the usual amount of vim and vigor. Tuesday was Bermuda Day which was a whopping success, even a few teachers participated. It looked like premature tryouts for Halloween on Wednesday as it was Orange and Black day, and Thursday brought the final pep rally and also the long awaited announcement of the King and Queen. The big parade and game were on Firday's schedule. It was a beautiful day and although we didn't win the game the enthusiasm shown was overwhelming; the boys put up a real fight.

With so many activities the week seemed to go fast, much too fast, but everyone agrees that this years Homecoming was just "a little bit better."

Wheel not only supplies running water-it also supplies a little brown jug for the Senior class as the winning float.

Our first Mr. Ugly, Jeff Pierce, is crowned with a tam and is awarded white gloves, a banner, a scarf, sunglasses, and, of course, flowers-in this case a big droopy sunflower!

Mayor Buckley arises a little earlier than usual to address the kick-off assembly at the onset of our homecoming week.

Queen Carol Kuck and King John Theilmann dance their first dance as the band plays Moon River.

"Moon River" Crossed In Style

After weeks of sketching, painting, and building, things finally began to take shape. In place of piles of miscellaneous lumber, cardboard, and nails stood the replica of a majestic plantation home with French doors opening onto a spacious patio, and across the gym was a wishing well which proved to be quite a conversation piece.

There was a great deal of time and effort put into the Prom but it wasn't tedious work because everyone helped. The fun and good times were unlimited but they went much too quickly. All too soon we found ourselves at the dance and realized there would be no more after school get togethers to work on decorations.

It was a sad thought but all good things must come to an end and we focused our attention on the dance itself. Soft lights and low music filled the air making the whole gym seem different somehow. It was no longer a basketball court; but instead, a dreamland. But even dreamlands must come to an end. The night is over but the memories will live forever; especially for the juniors because the Prom became almost a part of them.

The lights are low and so is resistance as the enchanting music of Richard Kent and his orchestra beckons the couples on to the danc e floor.

Happy Prom-goers gather around the stately southern mansion awaiting the arrival of the King and Queen.

Tod Kreuger tries to remember what Daddy told him to be sure to do as he escorts Miss Lisa Buckholtz down the stairs.

Couples move gracefully around the "converted" gym as the Hartford snowball gets into full swing under the auspices of a gaily tinseled tree.

A "Winter Wonderland"

Andy and Janice bravely face an open-car ride in the Christmas parade to condition them for their reign in a Winter Wonderland.

The Grand March proceeds to the strains of "Winter Wonderland" as Janice and Andy lead the line moving around the beautifully decorated gym.

After being crowned, Queen Janice Sauter and King Anders Gade take a deep breath, smile, and are ready to lead the Grand March.

Amid Holiday Splendor

'Twas three nights after Christmas and all through the school, not a creature was stirring, even the mouse played it cool . . . that is, until the band started playing.

"What's this," thought the mouse. "Why all the commotion?" Then he remembered. It was the night of the Senior Snowball. He crept to the gym and slipped behind one of the pine trees to watch unobserved.

Many couples were dancing to the soft strains of Roger Miller and his orchestra while others talked with friends. The night went quickly and soon it was time for the coronation. King Anders Gade crowned Queen Janice Sauter amid a setting of pines and crepe paper.

The grand march which followed provided the exercise necessary to arouse a good appetite for the cookies and punch being served in the cafeteria.

At midnight the last strains of music died away, and once again the little mouse was alone in a silence shadowed with pines.

Frank Multerer, Mary Jones, Gordy Purtell, and Linda Kofel seem to be enjoying themselves dancing to the music of Roger Miller.

Sitting space at the Senior Snowball was well used by weary couples after exhausting dances.

We could have danced all night and still have danced some more moaned many as the music ceased and the lights dimmed at midnight.

A Touch of the International

Andy Gade, A.F.S. student for this year, patronizes A.F.S. doughnut sale so the next A.F.S. student won't have to thumb his way over here.

Can you imagine yourself suddenly on the opposite side of the globe, living alone among people you've never seen before, and hearing, reading, and speaking only a foreign language for nine months? It sounds like an impossible situation, but for Anders Gade, our first foreign exchange student, it was an interesting reality.

The fact is that we were just as foreign to him as he may have seemed, at first, to us. Our differences are only frills around the same human core. For this reason, it didn't take long for "Andy" to fit in as "one of us."

In a world plagued by constant turmoil and threat of war, understanding our brothers across the sea is imperative. After one year of preparation, Hartford High students had the chance to do their part in promoting international good will.

The Hartford chapter of the American Field Service is responsible for bringing Andy to us. People connected with AFS have been secured to address the student body and fill them with enthusiasm for the project. Although much of the AFS work is done "behind the scenes," its members are extremely active. They have raised necessary funds through apple sales, track meet concessions, and so forth. This year, two of our student applications were selected and sent to New York. Although it can never be measured by concrete evidence, we all have, because of the efforts of the AFS, been enriched by the spread of friendship and mutual understanding among the peoples of the world.

Combination of Chaos,

Virginia Rode, Janice Sauter, Phyllis Multhauf, and Linda Kofel spent long hours searching to find the best words for Oriole Copy.

Confusion, and Fun— Our Yearbook

Where do Orioles come from? Before you say "eggs," let me clarify. I'm referring to the yearbook. You can't find them under cabbage leaves and they don't just happen, so how do they get here, who's responsible for them?

It's surprising how little the "layman" knows about the production of his yearbook. There is one day set aside for Oriole pictures and one for subscriptions. In June he receives his book, giving little thought to where it came from and who is behind it.

The Oriole is a composite of the efforts of its staff and advisor. The Oriole room buzzes with activity every 6th and 7th hour throughout the school year, with students working hard to create a yearbook of value. A lot of time, energy and fun are put into the Oriole but without your cooperation it could not be a success, so in answer to my question I would say it comes from the students, through the students. Confused? Well, eggs are easier to crack.

M. Bledsoe, G. Mayer, D. Lau and M. Buckley, the business staff show their technique of carefully counting the Oriole's money.

J. Lohr, M. Knoll, S. Stoakes, J. Schell, S. Mroczynski, B. Beilke, known as the "7th hour gang" take time off to watch the birdie.

Student Leaders Now, Adult Leaders Later

This years Student Council fulfilled one of its goals by providing many worthwhile and funfilled activities for our student body. Hartford Homecoming Week was a huge success with such events as Bermuda Day, Orange and Black Day, the parade, pep rally, and dance. The dress-up days, our Christmas program and Hartford's first hootenanny were also organized by the Student Council, really helping to make 'ole HHS progressive.

Besides fun projects for the school, the Student Council also carrys out service projects. A collection was taken for CARE and canned goods were collected to help make Christmas more joyful for persons less fortunate than ourselves.

To earn money the Student Council sold candy, apples and doughnuts. This money was used for scholarships and to help finance an AFS student.

The Student Council, which represents you, the student, has fulfilled its goal of promoting school spirit and better understanding and cooperation between our faculty and students.

W. Welbourne, J. Lohr, J. Larry, and J. Quandt put their cans with the Council's Can Drive to help needy people at Christmas.

Your Orange & Black— A Record That Defies The Tooth of Time

Ever hear of the five W's? Anyone who is associated with the school newspaper knows them. They're who, what, when, where, and why—the contents of a good article. The newspaper staff has a big responsibility and its members must be enthusiastic, thorough and accurate.

Hartford High's Orange & Black has been in existence for 40 years. It has changed greatly since 1923 but constant improvement is still the staff's aim. Sending the editor to a two-week journalism workshop is the first step in achieving this. She returns eager to put to work new ideas. During the summer of '63, even the advisor, Mr. Allen, attended a journalism clinic where he gained many valuable ideas for improvement. 1963-64 could not help but be a profitable year for the Orange & Black. So with the help of a competent staff, the editors managed to produce two news-filled, fun-filled issues per month.

Of Science Astonishes Many Students Today

It's night at HHS. As we enter the main door we come upon a hall haunted with shadows and silence. We hear the clicking of our footsteps echo against the walls; but as we continue on, we see a dim light in the science wing and go to investigate.

All of a sudden the stillness is broken by a blood-curdling shriek. A girl darts past us, followed by an innocent little hamster. It's Tuesday night and there's a Science Club meeting.

The Science Club is designed for those students who want to pursue their interests in science. The nearly fifty members are guided in this pursuit by their advisor, Mr. Andereck, their officers, and the planning committee. This year the planning committee did a fine job in producing a program of interest for all . . . a slide demonstration by the seniors, a career guidance film, group dissections, and many other things.

This hard working club has fun, and frustrations; but its members form, with their fortitude, a club HHS can be proud of.

Out Loud and Clear

Fifty-two of our ambitious classmates take a year round subject of fun, opportunity, and hard work. When school begins, practice for the football shows also begins. This means many hours of marching in the heat and cold, and even over lunch hours.

Then with barely a chance to catch their breath, it's time for Band-O-Rama. This year Hartford was host to five other bands who participated. At this same time, a number of band members formed the pit band for the musical, MR. CRANE OF SLEEPY HOLLOW; and soon after this was the combined band and choral Christmas concert.

Spring brought one of the biggest events of the year, the Solo and Ensemble Music Festival. Band members who received firsts in Class A selections went on to Madison to compete in the State Music Festival. The spring concert ended another busy school year; but many of the band members refuse to give up, they complete their summer by playing with the city band, throughout the summer and following school year.

Music Is Considered A Universal Language

Early this year, the students in the commercial wing during 3-4E were envious of the nearby room that seemed to have a hi-fi stereo; but the sign above the door, "Music Room," soon explained the mystery. Third hour brings the golden tones of the Girls Chorus while 4E finds the Mixed Chorus harmonizing.

Chorus is popular because it offers relaxation from the hectic school day and a release for built-up energy. It also develops vocal talent and an appreciation of artistic values, as well as encouraging individual initiative.

Included in this year's busy choral schedule were two concerts, "Mr. Crane"—our fall musical, a music assembly, a tour of the district grade schools, and the district contest when 13 schools met at H.H.S. Here again the chorus made a fine showing by receiving many individual and group firsts, often in Class A competition.

The Efforts of the

The Thespians are spotlighted only a few times during the year. Many hours of rehearsing results in only a few hours of actual performance, but the self-satisfaction of being under the spotlight makes it all worthwhile.

To become a member of the Thespian Club, 10 points must be earned. These points can be accumulated by acting, helping with make-up, lights, or any of the other jobs which are a part of each play.

This year's fall production was a musical comedy and modern version of "Mr. Crane of Sleepy Hollow." The cast consisted of Mixed Chorus members, with the Thespians in charge of make-up, properties, and costumes.

The spring play "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" was a light comedy about two girls who go to Europe. Their many experiences on the ship and in Paris add up to one hilarious time.

During the fourth quarter, "The Old Lady and Her Medals" and "Something Unspoken" were presented to the student body, thus bringing the year to a dramatic close.

Brains Are an Asset—Ambition Is a Must

The small gold pin which is a symbol of the National Honor Society is a pin to be worn with pride because membership in NHS is gained only through hard work and initiative.

NHS is an organization which calls for quality rather than quantity. Good grades play a great part; but other basic requirements are a friendly attitude, a desire for challenge, and plenty of stick-to-itiveness. Contrary to what may be established theory, scholars aren't all stuffy old bookworms who wear thick-rimmed glasses and spend the whole day studying. Many of these students are also active in extra-curricular activities which completes a well-rounded education.

The honor roll list of the Class of '64 has always appeared outstandingly large and now the National Honor Society boasts the same long list. NHS should be the goal of every one of us, not only because it is an honor; but also because our fine scholastic record will continue to assist us in meeting our future ambitions.

NHS student, D. Lahn and K. Heimerl may go into accounting after graduation (They get so much practice balancing the books).

A "Fine" Organization At Our Service Daily

She's off—puts five away in nothing flat and rounds the corner. Now she's coming down the home stretch. Crash! She just hit a pedestrian but nothing can stop her now! Here she is back at the starting line making a new record of 6:32.

Now, this is not the Indianapolis 500. It's just a student librarian pushing the bookcart. Her other duties include helping students use the card catalog and readers' guide, and checking out books and magazines.

The 25-30 members of the Library Club spend free periods and after school hours helping Miss Buckley, their director, keep a well-organized library. This is the only extra-curricular activity in continuous operation during the day.

The Library Club is not all work, however. Among this year's activities were a Progressive dinner, and their annual banquet.

So you see, it wasn't the 500, only a bookcart. Anyway, who ever heard of a pedestrian at Indianapolis!

Susie Gruenhagen vigorously stresses a point as she practices her non-original oration for the Fresh-Soph Forensic meet.

Do you realize that one of the prime purposes of Forensics is to test the strength of the podiums in this school?

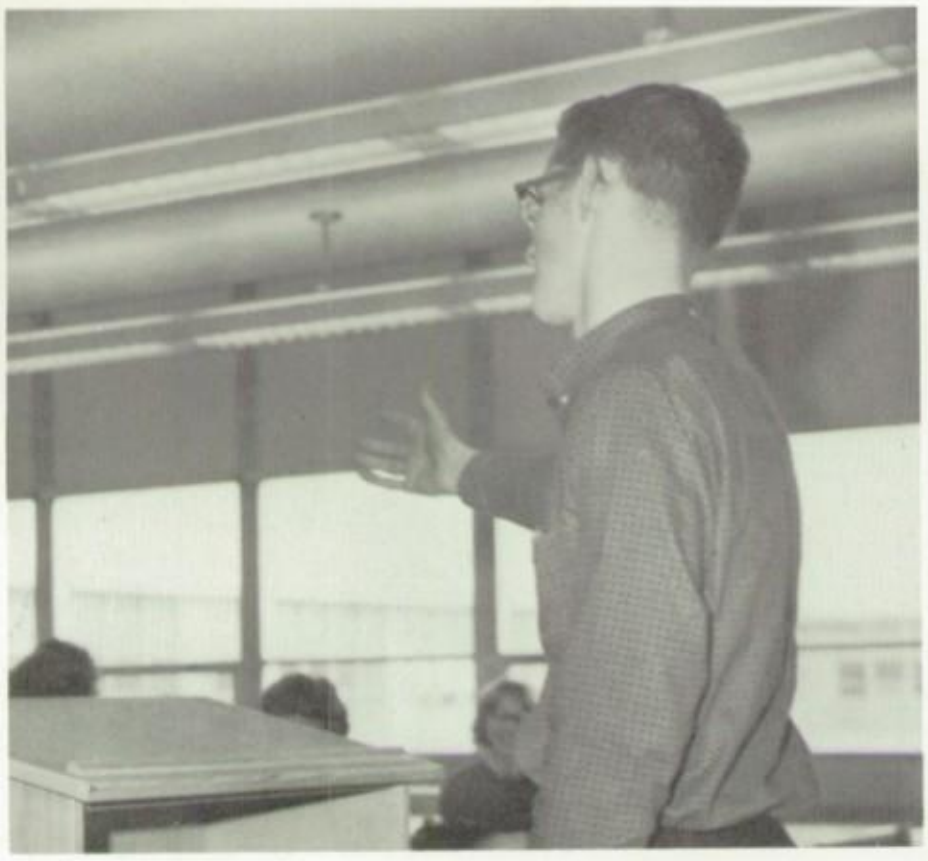
Recommended by Nine Of Podium-itis

Concentration, competition, action, and recognition were a few of the experiences met by the 80 some ambitious students who participated in forensics this year.

It's not all glory; it's not all victory. Forensics demands long hours of organizing, writing, revising, memorizing, and practicing. The orator may repeat the same eight minute—roughly 1200 word—speech up to 100 times. Even after all this he's never sure of winning; for every winner there must be several losers.

Whether he wins or loses, forensics teaches the student to express his ideas, to face an audience, to organize facts into a speech, and to become aware of his mistakes. For some, the forensics season was short, for others it continued on into spring and ended with the National Forensics League Meet.

This year, as in the past, Hartford High proved a leader in the forensics field. The year would not have been a success, however, without the direction of Mr. Underwood and the coaches who spent much time guiding these students. They are the backbone of the forensics program.



G. Roemer gives a watered-down speech on H_20 for public address.

Singularly Masculine— Preferably Active

"It's not fair! Miss Ferstl said I should get a letter for that terrific serve and now they won't even let me join."

Sorry, but the Letterman's Club is strictly for the boy's. It is the only club dedicated to the proposition that all men are created superior. It's the refuge for the bashful among the brutes; the truly masculine club of HHS. Membership in the club, however, is not limited, for any boy in fair physical condition can work for a letter . . . and I do mean work.

It means choosing a sport that suits your interest and then daily practice and determination. Hours of hard work must be put into this sport even though at times it may not seem worthwhile. Being on 2nd or 3rd string may be discouraging; but for many this only means they will return and try harder next season, for what better feeling is there for a boy than to display his first orange "H" on his very own sweater?

Research, Resolutions, Room 106

Coach O'Keefe helps K. Jeffords, S. Mroczynski, F. Multerer, and J. Buckley who formulate the case which won them 3rd at State.

If you happen to hear a heated argument going on in Room 106 before or after school most likely it's a practice debate between the members of our debate squad. This year, as in previous years, our debate squad has made a fine showing. They showed their ability using the following resolution. Resolved: That Social Security benefits should be extended to include complete medical care. How would you like to argue that point?

At the beginning of the debate season the future experts are just as much in the dark as the rest of us. However, they soon become well versed in arguments for either the negative or affirmative stand. Debaters spend much of their "spare" time wading through mountains of printed matter, government pamphlets, magazines, and newspaper clippings, looking for arguments, statistics, or quotes supporting their stands. Most of their Saturdays are spent in debate tournaments with other schools.

Debate offers the student a chance to develop his speaking, research, and organizing abilities as well as his relationship with other students.

Our school should be proud of not only our veteran debaters but also our freshmen and sophomores who will fill the places left by this year's "grads."

The Rambler Teaches These Future Farmers

Emerson once said, "The first farmer was the first man, and all historic nobility rests on possession and use of land." With this in mind, we can better appreciate the F.F.A. organization.

Most of us realize that F.F.A. stands for Future Farmers of America, but how many of us know what the future farmers stand for? The F.F.A. is a national organization whose primary aim is the development of agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship. The F.F.A. motto reflects a spirit of sincerity that shows the true viewpoint of farm youth . . . Learning to do, Doing to learn, Earning to live, Living to serve.

Among the many activities members may participate in are the Purina Calf Project, the Holstein Sire Calf Project, the F.F.A. State Convention at Green Lake, the Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Iowa, and their February banquet honoring parents and local merchants who have helped them.

You see, the Future Farmers of America are more active than you ever imagined. Members gain experience through projects which help them prepare for the future. They know "farming is not only a business; it is an occupation."

Rituals of Rome Renewed: The 3 R's In Latin

Three lively Romans, J. Kloth, V. Rode, and D. Oechsner, along with other patricians eat, drink, and make merry at the annual Latin Banquet.

Muffled laughter fills a dimly-lighted room. Loyal young slaves dash about the place after an olive, a prune, nuts, or perhaps for a refill of "vinum" for the master. Draped in long, flowing togas, the reclining dignitaries view with glee the dancing girls as they sweep past. Roman citizens have gathered from near and far for this great feast day. But, look again . . . it's not ancient Rome at all; it's the Hartford High Latin Club members enjoying the highlight of their spring, the Latin Banquet.

Yes, believe it or not, Latin is not "all work and no play." What may have seemed a dead civilization all year finally comes to life that night. Besides the banquet, members of the club this year were able to get a first-hand report of what the eternal city, Rome, was really like from Mr. O'Keefe who had spent the summer there. Through slides and lecture, he made what the books said much more real.

With the coming of the cool, crisp fall nights of the school year, one's attention is drawn to the back of the high school where the crash of bodies, and the thud of football is here. With the coming of the football season also come the hopes of a record better than that of the previous year, and this year was no exception.

The hopes were even higher this year than those of other years. This year Hartford had a new coaching staff headed by Mr. Larson and Mr. Halsey and also the return of 12 lettermen. With these factors in our favor the fans were justified in looking forward to a bright season filled with victories.

The boys worked hard in preparation for the first game. Three bus loads of fans were prepared to cheer them on to victory; but Providence that night had turned its back on Hartford, and we suffered a stunning defeat at the hands of Mayville. This seemed to set the pattern for most of the season, even though the fans could tell that each Friday night the team had renewed spirit and fought a little harder. Maybe next year Providence will find it fitting to smile on Hartford.

Future Varsity Has Hard Year to Go Before Turning Pro

Hartford's big victory against Arrowhead lit up the new $1,800 scoreboard at the southwest end of Lincoln Field last fall.

Football is not all gain and glory on Friday night. A lot of hard work goes into the building of a team from midsummer to the end of the season.

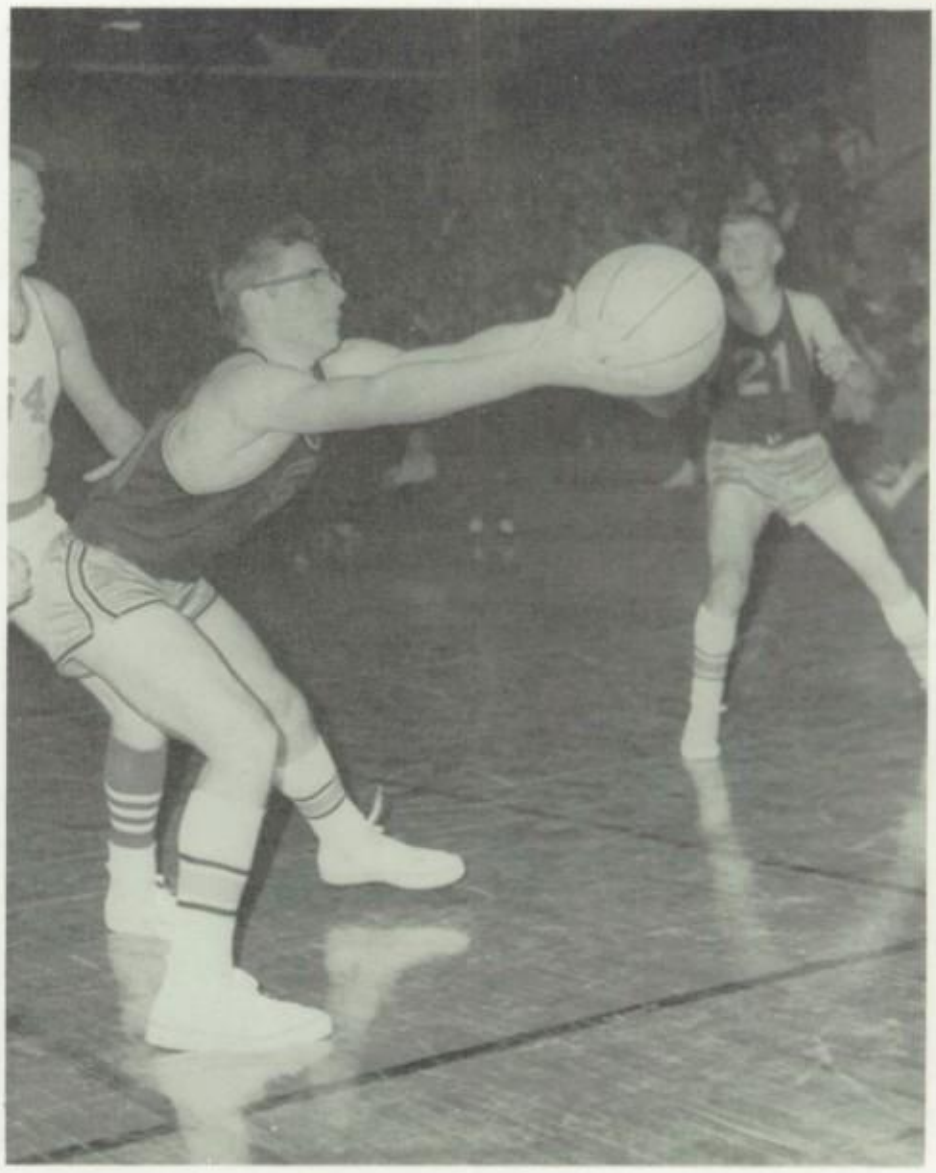
Eighteen Holes Without a Club

Cross Country running is a sport that not too many people know much about. Ask boys like Tim Delaney, Tom Adamski, Bob Maas, Don Schilling, Dick Miller, Tim Kline or Anders Gade, and they will tell you it takes a lot of hard work, peak physical condition, team work, and "guts" to produce a good cross country team or a man capable of running two and two tenths miles in a time under eleven or twelve minutes.

Coach Gib Mahr hoped for a good team this year possessing the above qualities, and I think he found just such a team. What with the excellent conditions offered by the course at the Hartford Country Club and the return of many of his last year's "A" and "B" team members he could be fairly sure of a profitable season, which he had. Besides all the golf ball dodging that Cross Country involves, the boys out for it still manage to sample many of the apples found on the golf course.

Here's to good luck in the future, boys. The outlook for next year looks good as all of the "A" team will be returning with the exception of Tom Adamski, a senior, and Anders Gade, our foreign exchange student.

Is running barefoot Coach Mahr's latest inside tip? It sure looks that way, as H.H.S. duo T. Delaney and T. Adamski lead the pack.



The main thing we're told is to hang on to the ball, even if you get knock-kneed as poor Darwin Derge seems to be at the moment.

"You can't do that" shouts a Mayville player as he grabs for the ball, but G. Derge makes a basket anyway, just to prove he can.

Amid the Bustle It's The Mighty Orioles

It was early in November and time for basketball practice to begin. The hopes for a successful year were high as the team had the return of six seniors to give them an experienced nucleus. Orbiting around this nuclei were many up and coming juniors and sophomores. This year the team was sure to promise many exciting and thrilling evenings for its fans.

In their first game, the mighty Orioles inflicted a stunning victory over the Warhawks of Germantown. The crowd of spectators was electrified at the Oriole's display of talent. The team seemed to have the balance and coordination needed to produce the winning combination for the rest of the season.

We didn't win many of the games after this, however, but they were usually close and packed with action. The boys put up a good fight and really gave their fans something to cheer about.

Part-Time Athletes Keep on the Ball

Basketball is one sport in high school which attracts a lot of attention and brings a great deal of recognition to the boys on the team. But some boys are unable to spend a great deal of extra time on a sport. They may have a part-time job or are needed at home. For them, intramural is the ideal solution.

In intramurals the boys get together with friends and form teams. This often leads to many a good rousing game of basketball—when the game finally gets started. After all, whoever heard of getting right down to business after spending a hard day in school. The warm-up session before each game consists of plenty "horseplay," but when the game is finally started everyone is "all business" and plays to win. Skill and good sportsmanship are developed in intramurals.

As a result of the shortened lunch hour this year, the intramural activities had to be held after school, but this certainly didn't hurt the turnout. Approximately 40 boys participated each week. This is very important because it is in areas such as intramural that school spirit is developed.

Boys stretch, scramble, and shuffle underneath a basket hoop during a tense moment at an Intramural game which is played after school.

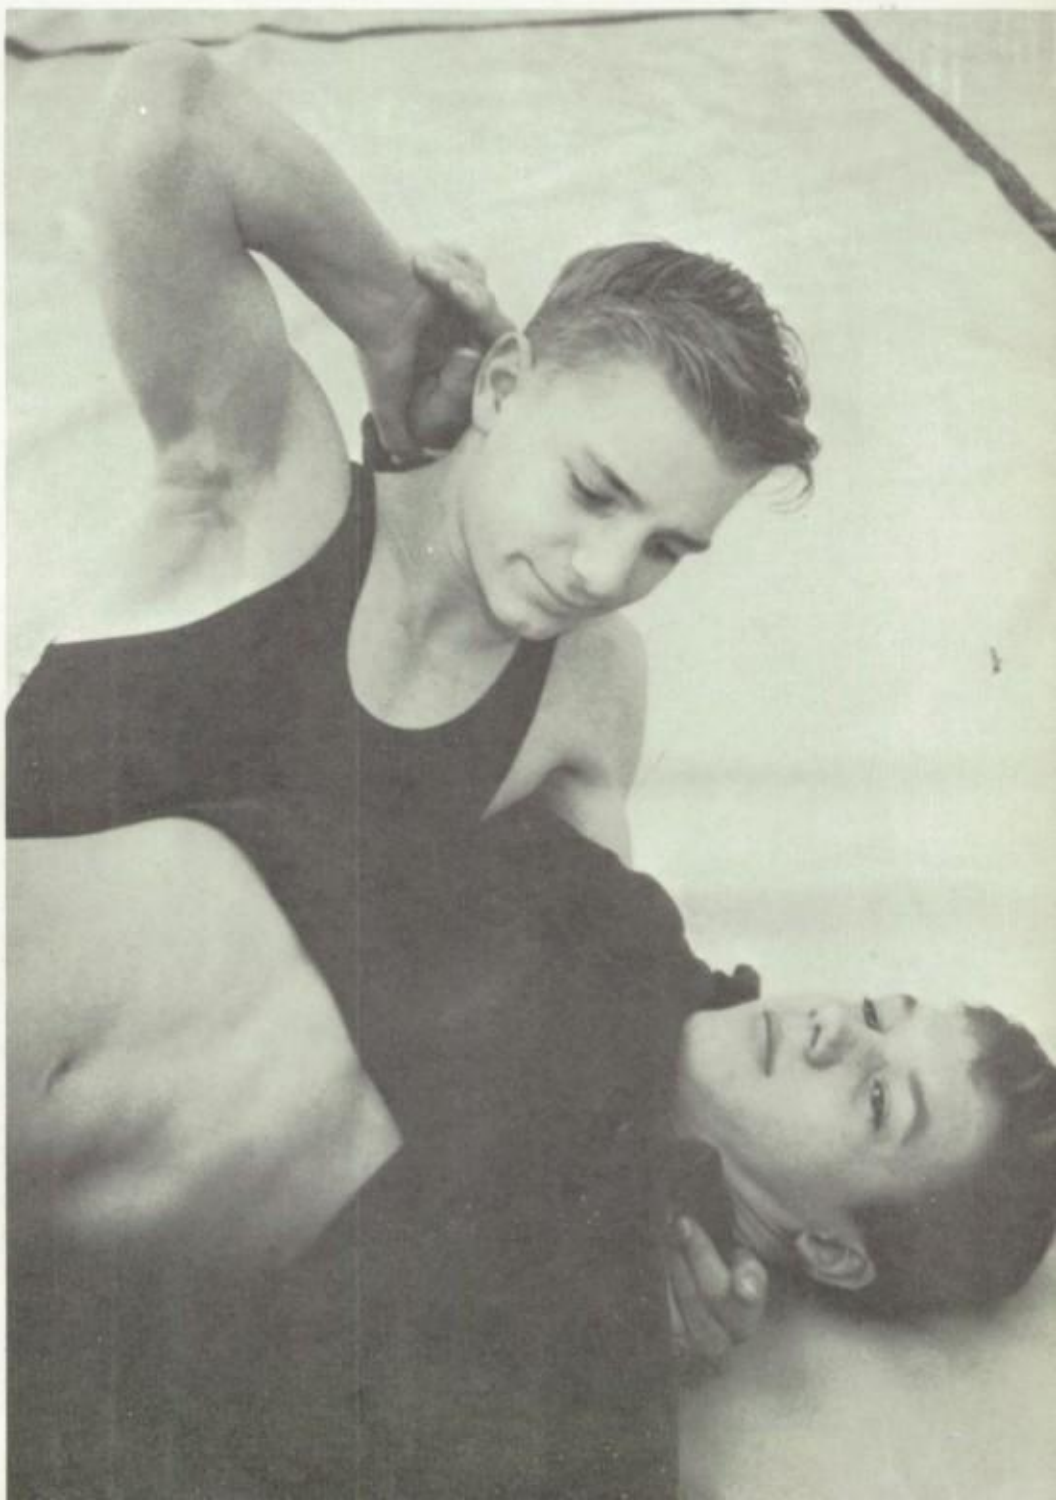
Beginning wrestlers catch on quicly—one gains a decided advantage by pinning his opponent as Coach Coleman slaps the mat.

Showing new wrestlers the finer points of wrestling, Ray Clough's muscles are straining as he puts Dan Zimmerman into a guillotine.



Wrestlers in Shape

There is a thud and a groan as one of the H.H.S. matmen gets the initial take down and goes in for the pin. The stand is wild with excitement as Hartford puts his opponent in a hold such as the "guillotine or grapevine." The referee is on his knees now and waiting for the pin. He slaps the mat and the match is over—another victory for Hartford.

This is what takes place every Friday night at the wrestling matches. Wrestling is little publicized; but under the leadership of Mr. Coleman, the wrestlers can boast of one of the finest records in school. It is a sport in which the participant must depend on his own strength, skill, and quick thinking. A wrong decision may mean quick defeat.

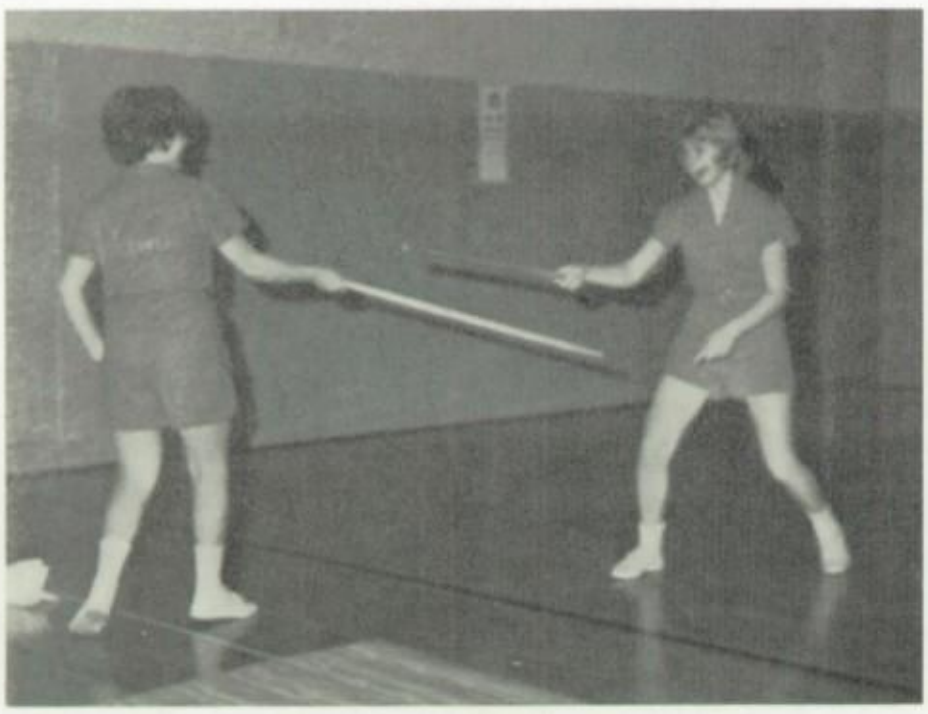
We know the matmen will keep up the good work; but here is to many "take downs, reversals and pins" in the future.

GAA members have their ups and downs on the trampoline as K. Kasten and T. Dummer demonstrate to Miss Ferstl's dubious enjoyment.

Getting started on the "tramp" takes a while, so to pass the time other girls learn a new "walk" with Miss Ferstl's coaching.

Physical Fitness for Our Femme Fatale in GAA

Fencing with sticks isn't dangerous, but it's loads of fun.



Thump! Whack! Plop! What are all these strange sounds emitting from behind the closed doors of the gym? A visitor at Hartford High might think it was the Annual Elephant Convention while one better acquainted would think it was the basketball team practicing; but as we listen closer, we hear some high-pitched giggles which would hardly be coming from our celebrated he-men.

Calm yourself, the Elephant Convention isn't until next month and the basketball team doesn't practice on Friday nights. This is merely the girls in GAA involved in a rollicking game of volleyball, or is that supposed to be basketball.

Oh well, it makes no difference. The form may not be the most professional nor the rules followed very religiously but on the Friday nights the girls take over the gym we may be sure that they are having a great deal of fun while combining physical fitness with a sense of fair play.

Give a Cheer for the Leaders of Our Cheers

If you happened to have heard an unusual amount of yelling anytime last summer, it may not have been your imagination; but instead, the varsity cheerleaders—Marcey, Judy, Karen, Linda, Lynn, and Mary Ann—preparing for the long, chilly football season ahead. Working out new motions for old cheers and adding new ones to the H.H.S. collection is their year-round project.

Witnessing an after-school cheerleading practice, you might expect these girls and the junior varsity cheerleaders—Lois, Terry, Ellen, Janet, Carol, and Carolyn to be completely exhausted by game time each week but they're peppier than ever as they cheer the team on to victory.

This year's cheerleaders also received some fringe benefits—attending a Marquette University basketball game, the cheerleaders' annual banquet, cheering clinics, and the state basketball tournament.

Central cheerleaders, C. Schroeder, R. Seefeldt, C. Jaekel, C. Clark, and M. Krenz pose between cheers during a practice.

Their inner feeling of municipal pride inspires Ellen Lambert, Carolyn Wolf, Janet Rosenthal, Terry Dummer, Lois Christopherson, and Carol Williams to form an "H".

Central—

A Vital Link in the Chain of Progress

This Year the Top Next Year the Bottom

V. Pres. P. Quant, Sec. C. Clark, Pres. S. Greenhager, and Treas. B. Lambert guard the student council's new gift to Central.

The saying "you can always tell a freshman" didn't hold true this year at Central. Usually the freshmen can be seen wandering around the halls the first few days, not quite sure which way to go for their next class: but this year that wasn't always the case. Many of them were old pros after attending Central the year before and had no trouble adjusting to this years schedule. There was still some confusion, of course, for those who had attended other grade schools but they caught on fast.

Extra-curricular activities kept this years freshmen busier than ever. Such things as G.A.A., basketball, the school paper, cheerleading, student council, and forensics occupied their time. Many have proven themselves very talented in these fields and will probably go far in Senior High.

Next year will bring still another change in curriculum as they will again be introduced to new faces, places, and activities as sophomores at Union High School.

Old Pros In The Central School Clan

Pres. M. Georgewitsch, Vice-Pres. E. Christenson, Sec. D. Kissling, and Treas. P. Speiser remind us what little acorns grow into.

It's the middle-of-the-road policy for the eighth graders. They're old enough to know the ropes but too young to be "top brass". With the many new classes now available at Central, these young teens are laying the groundwork for their curriculum. Taking these courses now, enables them to widen their activities and studies in later years.

Although their schoolwork kept them busy, many of the eighth graders found time to take part in the extra-curricular activities offered. Student council, the school paper, debate, forensics, chorus, and band often completed the day for them. Their talent in these fields was unlimited and often proved to be quite a threat to the freshmen, who disliked being defeated in anything by "underclassmen".

Junior Partners Are Now Members In Full

Treas. K. Mayer, Pres. C. Fox, Vice-Pres. M. Campbell, and Sec. R. Pike sit outside to put a new light on their executive duties.

"It's quite a change, isn't it?" A question like this is sure to bring a variety of comments from the seventh graders at Central.

These young teens have experienced quite a change in their education. No longer are they grade schoolers, they're in Junior High. Although their subjects still consist of geography, English, spelling, and science, many other opportunities for advancement have been offered. Such courses as modern math, Spanish, home ec., and general shop are at their fingertips.

Our Central School system is continually proving itself worthwhile. These seventh graders have taken courses which many of our juniors and seniors were unable to take until their freshman or sophomore year. This gives them quite an advantage. Having already taken these courses they are able to take others which may have been otherwise neglected.
